

TWENTY-FIVE DIED FOR LACK OF FOOD

APPALLING STORIES OF DESTI- TUTION IN HAVANA.

Mortality Record of One Day—Men, Women and Children Succumb to Famine—Greatest Suffering Exists
at Las Posos—Another Brilliant Victory for the Insurgents.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 15.—Twenty-five persons, among them women and children, died Wednesday at Las Posos, a place where the people are sent from Havana. About the same number die there every day from starvation. The Spanish soldiers at Santiago de Las Vegas, Havana province, are obliged to remain in town, as the insurgents are encamped in the outskirts waiting for them to come out.

It is stated in Havana that if Gen. Weyler leaves for Spain there will be a great uproar among the hot-headed Spaniards on the island. Threats are made to destroy the reformist paper, the Diario de la Marina, as it has worked for autonomy. Gen. Weyler says his recall is due to the Americans and their opposition to him.

In Santiago de Cuba province the insurgent forces under Rabi attacked a Spanish convoy, capturing all the provisions and also $7,000. A fierce combat has occurred between the towns of Madruga and Santa Cruz in Havana province. The Spanish forces of Madruga were attacked by Arango and Aranguren. The fight lasted several hours and the Spaniards were obliged to retreat, having lost thirty-four dead, among them several officers, and 105 wounded. The wounded were brought to Havana on a special train and taken to different hospitals.

It is said the governor of Havana, Palmerola, has been obliged to resign, owing to the manifestation of public feeling in honor of Gen. Weyler.

AS VINCENT SEES IT.

Eloquent Argument Is Made in A. L.
Luetger's Defense.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—The last man to speak for Adolf L. Luetger before his fate is sealed, the last to raise a voice for him before the jury passes on the question of his guilt or innocence, the question of his life or death, has begun his address in the prisoner's behalf. Ex-Judge Vincent is closing the arguments in defense of the accused. He began at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning and continued. So far as he proceeded his effort was masterly, for it was forceful, direct and convincing.

Attorney Phalen, for the defense, who spoke all of the preceding day, resumed his arguments in the morning and continued until nearly 11:30 o'clock. Immediately after he had finished his colleague began. Both of the defending lawyers took a kick at the police while they were casting aside the tangle of evidence the state had endeavored to throw about the defendant. Mr. Phalen was not severe in his attack on Inspector Schaack and his men, but Mr. Vincent did not hesitate to say some severe things.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 15.—The Toronto express on the Canadian Pacific railway collided with a freight at Stittsville at 5 o'clock Thursday morning. Engineer Rondeau of the express train was killed. R. It is said that the accident was due to the carelessness of the operator at Stittsville.

COMMISSION WORKS FOR RECIPROCITY

PRESIDENT McKINLEY NAMES THREE MEN.

John A. Kasson Is In Charge—Iowa
Man Directed to Hasten the Provisions of the Tariff Law—The Work to Be Proceeded With in an Energetic Manner.

Washington, Oct. 15.—John A. Kasson of Iowa, former minister to Austria, has been designated by the President to be special commissioner with plenary powers to carry into effect the reciprocity provisions of sections 3 and 4 of the tariff act approved July 24, 1897.

The interest of the President in reciprocity is especially keen, and during his connection with the tariff legislation of 1890, while chairman of the committee on ways and means of the house of representatives, the inclusion in that law of a reciprocity provision was conclusive of his determination to foster and promote American industry and commerce by these means.

In view of these facts the President has designated Mr. Kasson as such special commissioner, with Chapman Coleman of Kentucky as secretary, and John Ball Osborne of Scranton, Pa., as assistant secretary. The commissioner is charged particularly to look after the agricultural interests, both north and south, not forgetting the large and constantly increasing manufacturing interests east of the Alleghenies.

It is expected that the commission will be speedily organized and promptly begin its important labors. It will be established in the department of state, where suitable quarters have been assigned by the direction of the secretary of state.

ADOPT FEDERATION PLAN.

Representatives of Railway Brother-hoods Prepare Consolidation Features.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 15.—The railroad federation conference adjourned at 11:15 o'clock Thursday night after adopting a plan which will be submitted to the membership of the several brotherhoods for ratification. The trainmen, conductors, firemen and telegraphers were all represented, and their committees were vested with authority to agree on a plan for federation. If a majority of the lodges of each of the brotherhoods declare in favor of the plan it will become operative. The officers of the several organizations expect no definite returns until the end of the year.

As to the details of the plan, spokesman for the press committee, Mr. Clark, did not care to speak at this time. It is known, however, that there is no departure from any of the well-known principles. While maintaining the established plans of the organization, he said, it is proposed to concentrate the wisdom and judgment, and the moral influence and physical strength into one organization.

P. M. Arthur of the engineers stated that he was in full accord with the proposed plan and would bring it to the attention of the order at the next convention, to be held in May. It is believed the plan will then be adopted. Most of those who have been present at the conference left for Buffalo, where a union meeting of the several brotherhoods is to be held.

Fall to Agree on Peace Terms.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 15.—The effort to adjust the differences between the coal operators of the Kanawha Valley and their men has failed. The price offered by the operators was 30 cents for soft, and 56 cents for hard coal. The miners accepted this, but they wanted the owner of each individual mine to make and sign a separate contract. This was refused. President Ratchford says the fight will be continued on the part of the coal diggers, but he does not now hope to see a settlement at any time soon.

FROM MANY NATIONS THE WORKERS COME

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW IN SESSION AT BUFFALO

Statistics of the Order—Its Growth in Fourteen Years Has Been Eminently Satisfactory—American Board of Foreign Missions Chooses Its President—Other Religious Gatherings.

Buffalo, Oct. 15.—When the international convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew opened at St. Paul's Thursday fully 2,000 members were in attendance. After prayer and singing Rev. William D. Walker, bishop of Western New York, delivered his charge to the brotherhood. He spoke at length of the benefits of organization by the laymen.

The international committee's report told of the work and condition of the brotherhood in part as follows:

"In the church in the United States there are 1,226 chapters, with 12,000 members; in the dominion of Canada 212 chapters, with 1,500 members; in Scotland 12 chapters, with 100 members; in Australia, 40 chapters, with 500 members; in the West Indies and South America, 16 chapters, with 366 members; in the Church of England where the movement has but recently taken organized form, 39 chapters with 350 members.

"We have appointed James L. Houghteling, of Chicago, president of the brotherhood in the United States as president of the first international convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews."

President James L. Houghteling founder of the brotherhood, in the address of welcome was cheered lustily. Archbishop Nuttall, of Jamaica, spoke in response, as also did R. Vashon Rogers, vice president of the brotherhood in Canada; Cyril A. Alington, of All Souls' College, Oxford, England, and Right Rev. Edward Stuart Talbot, lord bishop of Rochester. Many congratulatory telegrams were received.

DR. LAMSON PRESIDENT.

Hartford Divine Chosen by American Board of Foreign Missions.

D., recommended that some recognition of the service of Dr. Whitman be made in the pulpits of the Congregational churches of the United States on Sunday, Nov. 28; that special memorial services be held in Boston and Washington on Nov. 29, the fiftieth anniversary of the massacre, and that the representatives from the board be appointed to bear its greetings to the Presbyterian friends of missions at the anticipated unveiling of the statue of Dr. Whitman in Philadelphia and to the gathering in celebration of this anniversary at Walla Walla, Wash., on the same day.

Lutheran League Commended.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 15.—The general council of the Evangelical Lutheran church assembled in St. John's church Thursday. There were over 200 delegates present. Rev. F. A. Koehler of Buffalo, president of the Erie synod, delivered the opening sermon, after which adjournment was taken until afternoon.

When the convention reassembled Rev. Edward F. Mohlenke of New York, the president, read his report reviewing the work of the several synods and institutions. He said in part: "The general council has doubled its numerical strength within the last thirty years. In 1867 it numbered 575 pastors, 1,101 congregations and 144,716 communicant members. Today the general council has a membership of 1,138 pastors, 1,908 congregations and 326,833 communicants.

"The policy of the Lutheran league has so far been quite conservative. Undoubtedly local influences will be responsible for un-Lutheran symptoms which may occasionally come to the surface, but we fervently hope for the victory of truth. This movement, which has expanded so surprisingly, may become abundantly useful to our church, but, if not properly held in the right channels, may also prove very dangerous and harmful."

HONOR W. T. FENTON.

Chicago Man Chosen President of Illinois Bankers' Association.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 15.—The seventh annual convention of the Illinois Bankers' association ended Thursday night with a banquet at the National hotel.

It had been expected that the morning would be devoted largely to a discussion of postal savings banks. Senator Mason was down for an address in their favor, which was to be answered by W. S. Rearick of Ashland. Senator Mason was unable to be present, however, and in his absence Mr. Rearick had the other side all to himself, and evidently had most of the country bankers with him. He opposed the postal savings bank as the entering wedge for the interference of the government in all the business affairs of life and as tending toward state socialism.

Letters from L. J. Gage, secretary of the treasury, and James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency, expressing regret at their inability to attend, were read.

John Farson of Chicago reported for the delegates to the American Bankers' association at Detroit. He said Illinois was well represented by thirty or forty delegates and honored with the nomination of Frank W. Tracy as vice-president. The great address of the convention was made by Illinois' honored son, James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency.

Reports were heard from vice-presidents on the welfare of the association. The reports were uniformly encouraging and hopeful.

A number of topics were then announced for general and informal discussion, there being little disposition to indulge in argument.

The election of officers was taken up, resulting as follows: President, W. T. Fenton, National Bank of the Republic, Chicago; first vice-president, J. L. Hamilton, Jr., Hoopes & Co., secretary, Edward Tilden, Chicago; treasurer, A. B. Hoblitt, Bloomington.

Plague Is Unchecked.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 15.—It is the same old story here. The yellow fever situation showed no decline in the number of cases reported. Wednesday's record of nine deaths was exceptional. It was 7 o'clock last night before a third as many deaths were reported as had been in the previous twenty-four hours. The existing conditions are not favorable for quick stamping out of the disease. The weather is warm and sultry and unusual for the season, and if it keeps up there will be little improvement for the time being.

No More Temple Cup Games.

Washington, Oct. 15.—A prominent National league magnate, in discussing the Temple cup series, said: "The Temple cup games just concluded at Baltimore have done more to injure the national game in Boston and Baltimore, and, in fact, some other cities, than anything I know of in recent years. There will be no more Temple cup business in the major league. No less than five magnates have told me they would vote for the abolishment of this feature of the game at the November meeting in Philadelphia."

Both May Run for Senator.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15.—It is announced that ex-Gov. Matthews and Senator Turpie have failed to come to an understanding in reference to the United States senatorship, and it seems certain at this time that both will be in the race next year. Several months ago the ex-governor was half-inclined to step aside unless he had a clear field, but his friends throughout the state were unwilling that he should announce such a decision and have been insisting that he shall stay in the race, no matter what the senator intends to do.

LOGAN DRANK ACID IN PLYMOUTH, WIS.

TRAVELING MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

He Represented a Sheboygan Yeast House—Going to His Room In the

Drank Carbolic Acid From a Bottle and Died.

Plymouth, Wis., Oct. 15.—[Special]—J. M. Logan, of Sheboygan, representative of the Sheboygan Yeast Co., aged about forty-five years, was found dead in his room at the Wisconsin Hotel this morning, the supposition being that he committed suicide. Last night Mr. Logan arrived in the city and immediately went to the Wisconsin Hotel, where he registered. He failed to put in an appearance at breakfast and an employee went to his room to call him. He could get no response and finally he opened the door. He was horrified to find Logan dead in bed. A bottle of carbolic acid was found beside the bed.

TRAIN-WRECKING PLOT FOILED.

Timely Discovery of an Attempt to Ditch a Pennsylvania Express.

Huntingdon, Pa., Oct. 15.—A dastardly attempt at train wrecking was made Wednesday night near Newton Hamilton, twelve miles east of here, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Frank Noe, one of the culprits, was arrested and is now in the Mifflin county jail. It is believed others were engaged with him in the nefarious work.

About the time the last St. Louis express was due at Newton Hamilton the track watchman discovered a switch frog completely obstructed with large stones. Just above this point he found and removed three railroad ties, which had been firmly wedged across the east-bound main track.

Two hours later the fast express struck three ties which had been placed across the west-bound track 300 yards west of the Newton Hamilton station. The obstruction was crushed into splinters and the train was not derailed.

Revolt Among Odd Fellows.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 15.—There is a revolt against the action of Supreme Grand lodge of Odd Fellows. At its recent meeting in Springfield, Ill., it passed upon the pending claims of Indiana and Jefferson, this state, for the location of the orphan's home, deciding in favor of Indiana, reversing the Iowa grand lodge. This is being resented as unwarranted interference. Lodges in this county met here by delegates and adopted resolutions to the effect that the matter was not within the province of the supreme grand lodge and that the home should be located at Jefferson, or some new point to be selected. Grand lodge representatives were so instructed. The revolt is rapidly spreading and a lively time in the grand lodge is promised. It may result in the abandonment of the home project.

Field Decides to Retire.

Washington, Oct. 15.—It was announced in Supreme court Thursday that Justice Stephen J. Field of California had notified President McKinley of his intention to retire as a member of the court, and had informed his colleagues of this fact. The members of the court after adjournment at 4 o'clock called in a body on the retiring justice to pay him their respects. It is expected that his successor will be nominated by the president immediately after the convening of congress in December, and that Attorney General McKenna, also of California, will be named for the office.

Mrs. Carew Is in Luck.

London, Oct. 15.—The British government has decided to reopen the case of Mrs. Carew, the woman prisoner sentenced to death a year ago in Yokohama, Japan. In view of this, the sympathizers with Mrs. Maybrick, whose case is identical, may feel hopeful. A hint to Premier Salisbury, it is thought, would probably bring about a retrial for Mrs. Maybrick.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 15.—The Central West Congregational Association closed a two days' session in Onida. The papers were of unusual interest.

Henry Clarke, the first pastor of the church, his presence among us at this time was most appropriate. Mr. Clarke's recollections, humorous and serious, related at the reminiscence meeting, afforded rich enjoyment to all who heard them.—Brookfield N. Y. Courier.

DRESS OF CINNAMON-BROWN BROADCLOTH FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

This shows a girlish and youthful gown of cinnamon brown broad cloth. The trimming on the waist is of a style that is very popular this season. It consists of narrow folds of black satin used very much as braid would be—namely, stitched down in straight lines. The entire front of the side fastened blouse is criss crossed with these narrow black folds, and below the waist there is a pattern of interlaced lines around the top of the skirt, which defines a sort of basque. Directions for cutting the skirt, waist, and sleeves are given in the tissue paper patterns sold by Harper's Bazar, where this costume appears.

In the side of the blouse which fastens over there is a frill of golden brown and green shot silk, and a similar frill is in the neck. The skirt and sleeves of the gown are corded throughout their entire length. The sleeves are narrow, with no regularly defined puff, but just a little fullness gathered on the shoulder, much as the old time coat sleeve.

It will be seen that while the style of the gown is exceedingly simple, and capable of being worked out with simplicity, it still lends itself, as shown in this model, to considerable elaboration in the way of labor and ornament.

VILLAGE WINS ITS CASE

Albany Declared to be Free From Liability in Damage Suit.

A verdict for the defendant was rendered in the $5000 damage suit of W. G. Wallace against the village of Albany in Judge Bennett's court. The case was not sent to the jury, Judge Bennett directing a verdict in favor of the defendant on the ground that the village was not lawfully incorporated at the time of the accident or at the commencement of the suit. This was the point raised by M. G. Jeffris in defending the case.

MORAL FAIRS PAY ONCE IN AWHILE

TWO LESSONS FROM THIS FALL'S SHOWS

Fair Managers in Walworth County Follow a Plan and Succeed While Oshkosh Follows It and Fails—Contrast in the Two Counties Is Shown.

You can draw any lesson you like from the county fairs held this fair.

Moral fairs pay!

That is the Walworth county verdict. Moral fairs don't pay!

That is the emphatic declaration of Oshkosh.

These decisions have interest of a reminiscent sort for Janesville. Controversy along these very lines had much to do with the troubles of the Rock county society.

The Oshkosh fair this year was con-any one day at any other fair in the state, except that at Milwaukee.

Colonel Watrous Explains.
The Milwaukee Telegraph thinks it knows why the Elkhorn fair succeeds and says:

"The Walworth county society disproves the claim so often made by agricultural societies in most of the states, that in order to draw a crowd it is necessary to abandon the old fashioned fair customs. Walworth county has demonstrated that the surest way to bring about successful, beneficial and in every way creditable fairs is to stick to the old-fashioned custom of making a fair that will attract the masses instead of the fakirs, gamblers and other undesirable classes. This successful society invests in races, but never extravagantly. During its life time it has paid nearly a quarter of a million of dollars in premiums. It has never asked for state or county aid; it has always paid its premiums in full. County fair week in Walworth is the week of the year. Every citizen has personal interest and personal pride in its success. That is why it succeeds—why it distances all other fairs, state and district included, in Wisconsin."

WE KEEP THE QUALITY UP

Festivals and Parties.....

Will awaken in the feminine heart longing for an evening gown. We never had such a fine lot of silks, velvets, accordion chiffon, in lovely effects; mousseline de soie puffing, a dreamy creation, lace nets and heavy embroidered all overs in cream, white and two tone; a world of trimmings; exquisite things in jeweled bands, applique novelties, rich embroidered bands in white and cream; laces, a perfectly immense line, the very latest novelties, nothing lacking. Hardly a thing that we cannot supply. There is little excuse for any woman to go away from this city for dress goods and pay bigger prices. The reason advanced by some for trading in other cities is a weak one, for we can suggest hundreds of rich combinations for dresses, so that no two suits need be the same.

If it is a matter Of Price...

That would lead you to keep the old curtains hanging, think better of it. The trifling cost of a pair of curtains, as we sell them, should not come between you and new draperies. A look through our great stock and a knowledge of the prices we are making will convert you to our point of view. Besides all the newest things in lace curtains, we show beautiful new heavy curtains in Tapestry, Brocatelles, Velours, Bagdads, Chenille, Roman, &c. It's a treat to see such an assortment of rich curtains and a relief to know that such a small outlay will secure them.

A NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

New York republicans are right about the bearing their canvass will have on the future of the party. Republican victory in the coming New York election would encourage the party all over the country. It would show that the republican wave, which began to rise immediately after Cleveland's election five years ago, is still at its flood. In 1896 the republicans would have carried the country even if the state of New York had gone against them, and the democrats would have won the presidency in 1892 if they had lost that state. In 1880, 1884 and 1888, however, that state's vote decided the election, and its attitude was largely determined by the vote of the region comprised in the enlarged city, which holds about half of the population of the state. The possession of that state may or may not be essential to republican success in 1900, but the knowledge that it will be surely republican—and a victory for Tracy in the coming contest would mean the party's supremacy in the state three years hence—would seriously depress the Bryanites all over the country.

Moreover, a republican victory in the New York election would be a strong factor in the general business situation. The fear that either Tammany or Henry George may carry the city has sent stocks down in the past few days, as the dread of Bryan's triumph did several times between his nomination and the election in 1896. The continued predominance of the republicans in national affairs is necessary to the permanence and extension of the financial improvement and a reverse in New York city would frighten business men, for a time at least, and check the growth in trade. This fear, it is well to remember, would effect democratic business as well as republicans. In a broader sense, therefore, than is apt to be realized the election in New York is of general importance. The defeat of Tracy would encourage the Bryanites all over the country, arouse all the elements of disorder and discontent, which are always banded against the republican party, and check, for a time, the expansion of industries and the advance in wages. This is why the campaign in New York is of national interest, and why members of the national administration will be justified in taking part.

One of the members of the unofficial monetary commission, now sitting in Washington, speaking of the objects of the commission, said: "There is surely some method of doing away with this thing of having money command 9 and 10 per cent. interest in the southern and western agricultural communities upon paper that is perfectly sound, when it will only command 4 and 5 per cent. upon paper of equal soundness in the northern seaboard states." If the commission will find that method and get it put into operation thousands, aye millions, will rise up and call it blessed.

Henry George has not said a word about his gospel of the single tax since he became a grab bag candidate for mayor of New York city. Perhaps his belief in the single tax theory does not extend beyond its production of revenue, through the sale of his books.

It would not be surprising if the Spanish authorities were really glad that Senorita Evangelina Ossio escaped from that Havana prison.

If the republicans fail to elect the mayor of New York city the failure will be chargeable to the so-called republicans who have set themselves up as being better than their party.

The celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the old Dutch church of Washington Irving's Sleepy Hollow reminds us that as a nation we're not so young.

If Henri Watterson believes, as did the elder Bennett, that it is better for an editor to be damned than to be praised, he ought to be supremely happy.

NO STICK CANDY IS SOLD

Grocers Say Children Are Too Blase For Old Fashioned Sweets.

The sale of stick candy is a thing of the past, even among children. The twisted peppermint, pink and white, and the yellow and white lemon, and the cinnamon and wintergreen sticks are to be found now in only a few of the shops, and even there the demand for them comes very seldom. The children themselves have grown to prefer the more expensive kinds of confectionery, and many of them have even progressed beyond machine made chocolate creams, and will have nothing but hand made creams and dipped nuts and candied fruits and bitter sweets. "When I was a little girl," remarked a woman whose small girl had just scorned the tray of butter scotch and lemon drops in a candy store. "I used to have stick candy whenever I had any kind, except at Christmas and New Year's and my birthday. Then, as a great treat, we used to be allowed to have a little bag of something else—and machine-made chocolates did just as well. I don't know who is to blame, and I don't know as anybody is; but what I do believe is that I would take more solid satisfaction now in a stick of peppermint candy or a square of butter scotch or a bag of molasses candy—yes, and I am not sure but in a bull's eye, than in all the other kinds I have had since I used to wish for them."

IT WAS 89 ABOVE TODAY

Jansville Heat Record for October Broken This Afternoon.

The thermometer went even higher today than it did yesterday and made people doubt whether even the weather in October 1870 was as hot.

Certainly there has been no fall in the last twenty-seven years when the temperature average has been so high. At 11 o'clock this morning the thermometer at Smith's pharmacy stood at 86 above and at noon thermometers in several parts of the city showed 89. People wearing heavy clothes suffered as much as the people in light clothes will suffer from colds, rheumatism and pneumonia when the weather changes.

WHICH MORTGAGE HOLDS

Justice Richardson Has a Knotty Point to Decide For John Powell.

It is for Judge Richardson to say which one of two chattel mortgages covers John Powell's crops. Powell gave the first mortgage to his sister Mrs. William Roberts of Johnstown to secure her on a bill for wages. The mortgage was not signed by Powell's wife who was in the State Hospital for the insane at the time. Several weeks later she came home and a mortgage was given to I. J. Fletcher on the same property, this time Mr. and Mrs. Powell both signing. T. S.

SHOOTING SINGERS IS CHEAP SPORT

WILBUR GOT OFF WITH A FINE OF $5

It Was Impossible For Members of the Company to Stay and Prosecute the Case As Two Week's Engagements Would Have Been Lost—Conflicting Stories Told.

If you want to shoot anybody, shoot an opera singer.

The affair Wednesday night would have landed Lawrence Wilbur behind the bars for a couple of years under ordinary circumstances. It was settled by a payment of a $5 fine because the man he shot was the member of an opera company and the members of the company could not afford to stay here two weeks to appear as witnesses.

It looked for one while as if the Calhoun company's tour would have to be given up and the company disbanded on account of the shooting.

Had Wilbur been held on the charge of assault with intent to kill, a dozen members of the company would have been subpoenaed as witnesses. In fact, subpoenas were served early Thursday morning.

Would Have Wrecked Company

The holding of ten members of the company in Janesville as witnesses would have meant cancelling dates for two weeks ahead. As said before, it would have ended the tour right here. This was why Butters refused to prosecute. He went to Chicago at 7:30 last evening to go into a hospital and have the bullet taken out of his leg. When he recovers he will be given his old position in the company, that of property man.

Wilbur went before Judge Phelps last evening just before court adjourned and pleaded guilty to the charge of shooting within the city limits. He was fined $5 and started for St. Louis this morning.

Wilbur Told Two Stories.

When Wilbur left the jail last night he said he was going straight to St. Louis. He told a different story at the Hotel London Wednesday afternoon. He had a long talk with Landlord Fred Jones and said he intended to leave the company and go to Massachusetts. He had been out with the company only three weeks, he said, but had been with other companies for several years. Before he began to sing in opera, he said, he was choir boy in a church. He said that his wife's folks lived in Philadelphia and that she was playing there in a stock company.

Fine Paid by His Friends.

The members of the company took up a subscription last night and paid his fine and bought him a railroad ticket to Chicago. He was wholly out of funds when the shooting took place.

A good many in the company thought that Wilbur was justified in the shooting. He had been pounded by two members of the company before he went to the hotel. After talking with Butters he went quietly upstairs but was followed by Butters the electrician, both much heavier men.

It was two against one and there is also a doubt as to the way a revolver came into the case. If it was the property revolver it had been loaded with ball cartridge after the show, which would suggest that Butters was out after scalps.

HAMMAS JURY SEES HORSE

Question of Its Color Raised in the Trial Today.

The jury in the Hammass case was taken out on the bridge this morning to see the horse alleged to have been stolen. The only new witness sworn in the case thus far is Stephen S. Hull the deputy sheriff who arrested Hammass in Rock Island. The state rested its case at 11:30 and the defense put on witnesses to show that there had been a conference between the witnesses of the state as to what story should be told about the horse's color.

ISAAC SAXTON SHOT BY JOSEPH BUNDY

FATAL ENCOUNTER IN DARIEN TODAY.

Well-To-Do Resident of Emerald Grove Has a Dispute With the Landlord of the Saxton House in Darien and Shoots Him Down in the Street.

Joseph Bundy, a well-to-do Rock county farmer, shot Isaac Saxton, proprietor of the Saxton House in Darien, in a dispute about a horse trade this noon.

Bundy escaped and officers in every surrounding town have been notified.

One of Saxton's men who came from Darien to Janesville at 1 o'clock, said that Saxton was dying. The bullet went in over his left temple.

Bundy, who is about forty-five years old, married the widow of Copeland Cutter and moved to the Ransom farm west of Emerald Grove about a week ago. He was closing up some of his deals in Darien today when the shooting occurred.

Several people stood near when Saxton was shot, but while they were caring for Saxton Bundy escaped. He is supposed to have gone to White-water, but men were started out for Emerald Grove, Clinton, Janesville and other points in hopes of catching him.

L. L. Thomas who drove to Janesville to notify Rock county officers was standing at Saxton's side when the shot was fired.

"Saxton was dying when I came away," said Mr. Thomas. "The whole thing came so quickly that I hardly know how it occurred."

Chief Hogan received a telegram this afternoon giving the following description of Bundy:

Five foot, ten inches high, weight 165 pounds, gray suit of clothes, brown hat, hair short and slightly gray, and light mustache.

Rundy claimed that Saxton owed him $10 on a horse trade and Saxton claimed he owed nothing. They had words and the lie was passed. Bundy whipped out his pistol and fired without giving warning.

He had bought the revolver twenty minutes before in a hardware store and had the clerk load it.

He went directly from the hardware store of the Saxton House, where the old discussion over the horse trade was renewed.

After the shooting Bundy walked away quietly to where his horse was hitched; unsnapped the hitching strap and left it hanging to the post, and drove out of town, looking back to see if anybody was following.

Before he got into the buggy he threw his revolver into a corn patch and Saxton's son went over and picked it up.

Bundy had a good chance to escape as he was driving one of the best roadsters in the county—a brown horse with star on forehead, spotted all over from effects of distemper.

Bundy was caught late this afternoon.

LORRAINE.

"Are you ready for your steeple chase, Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorraine?"
Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum, Barum!
You're booked to ride your capping race today at Coulterlee.
You're booked to ride Vindictive, for all the world to see.
To keep him straight and keep him first and win the run for me."

She clasped her newborn baby, poor Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorraine.
"I cannot ride Vindictive, as any man might see.
And I will not ride Vindictive with this baby on my knee.
He's killed a boy, he's killed a man, and why must he kill me?"

"Unless you ride Vindictive, Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorraine,
Unless you ride Vindictive today at Coulterlee And land him safe across the brook and win the blank for me
It's you may keep your baby, for you'll get no keep from me."

"That husbands could be cruel," said Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorraine.
"That husbands could be cruel I have known for seasons three.
But, oh, to ride Vindictive while a baby cries for me
And be killed across a fence at last, for all the world to see!"

She mastered young Vindictive—oh, the gallant lass was she—
And kept him straight and won the race as near as near could be,
But he killed her at the brook against a pollard willow tree.
Oh, he killed her at the brook, the brute, for all the world to see,
And no one but the baby cried for poor Lorraine, Lorraine.

—Charles Kingsley.

A TRAGEDY BY EAR.

We happened to come out of the club together, and so I walked along the boulevard with M. Maroux, a man with a kindly face, but marked with an infinite melancholy.

"Will you wait a minute for me?" said I as we reached the postoffice. "I wish to go in and telephone."

He started at the last word, and I saw his grip tighten on his cane. When I returned, he still seemed nervous, and to break an uncomfortable silence I made some commonplace remark about what a marvelous invention the telephone was and what inestimable services the progress of science was doing us every day.

"Do you think so?" replied M. Maroux in a tone of bitter irony. "It seems to me, on the contrary, that science, far from aiding us, only emphasizes our human weakness and cruelly multiplies the means that can cause us suffering. But you will understand me better if I give you an example of what I mean from my own experience:

"I was spending my autumn vacation with Louise, my wife, and Marcel, my little son, at my country place at Morande, which I had just bought. It was in the country about three leagues out of Marseilles. Nanette, our old servant, was both housekeeper and cook. Blaise, who was devoted to me, delighted at being once more near the city where his worthy old mother lived, fulfilled the functions of gardener and had his quarters in a detached outhouse.

"With my gun on my arm and my two dogs at my heels I used to wander about all day with my wife and baby in that delightful solitude. To make amends for our isolation, I had a telephone line put up to connect with the central office at Marseilles, and by it every evening, as I sat in my bedchamber, I could learn what had been done during the day at my factory in Paris.

"Our peaceful life was interrupted by a notice from my superintendent. By making personal application I could probably obtain an important government order. The weather was so fine and Marcel seemed so well that Louise decided to wait for me at Morande. But on the eve of my departure for Paris the rain fell in torrents. When the hired vehicle arrived before my door, at sight of the immense blackness of the fields and woods I felt a sudden gripping at my heart.

"You will be away only two nights," Louise reassured me. "Nanette will sleep near my room. Blaise has your gun, and from the house where he sleeps he could hear us call, and the dogs are an excellent guard. What could happen to us?"

"I kissed Louise and Marcel and started on my journey. On the train I passed a most uneasy night, and I had no sooner reached Paris than I jumped out of the carriage and hastened to a telephone office. Communication being established, I heard, nasal and muffled, but still very sweet to me, the voice of my wife.

"Hello!" I called. "How did you pass the night, Louise? Were you very frightened?"

"Yes, a little—Nanette especially. We did not get to sleep until almost daybreak because Nanette thought she heard steps in the garden. The dogs, which we had forgotten to untie, had been barking a long time. At last we opened the window and called Blaise. He took the gun, loosed the dogs and made a tour of the house, but he did not find anything suspicious. Baby, who did not suspect anything, the fine little fellow, has waked up and is calling me. Goodby. If you have a moment before dinner, call me up again."

"Only half reassured, I plunged into the business in hand and was not able to go to the telephone again until after 8 o'clock. I had to call a long time.

"Hello! Hello!" I called. "Why don't you answer, Louise? What is the matter?"

"Something we did not expect this afternoon. The shutters had been fastened, the dogs untied, and Nanette had put up a bed for Blaise in the hall, in order to save us the terrors of last night, when a boy from the village brought a note for Blaise. His mother had suddenly been taken very ill, and she wanted him to come to her immediately. The boy, whom we had never seen before, went away again as soon as he had delivered the note, without giving us any further information. Blaise, who adores his mother, was quite upset. He did not want to leave us alone before day light, but his sorrowful face told how dearly the delay would cost him. I thought that if this woman dies tonight I shall have prevented poor Blaise from receiving her last blessing. So I overcame my scruples and made him go. He promised to return this evening, and to save time he will drive back. I have just bolted the doors after him. That is why I kept you waiting. Now, how is that business affair getting along?"

"Very well; but let us talk about yourself. You should not have let Blaise go. Even if he drives back he cannot return before 10 or 11 o'clock. My sole confidence was in knowing that he was near you, and now he is gone. And then that boy who ran away before you had time to think of making sure his news was true! At any rate Blaise has left you the two dogs and the gun, has he not?"

"The two dogs are asleep on the porch. As for the gun, Blaise must have left it in the hall. I shall go and make sure. Can you hear Marcel? He is sitting in my lap and is saying good-night to you. Listen."

"Good night, papa, good night."
"Good night, my darlings. I must get a bite of dinner now, and then I will call you again."

"Once outside I felt oppressed with what my wife had just told me. I had dissimulated my own anxiety in order not to add to her fears, but that uneasiness, which had hardly been quieted by the first conversation, now waxed stronger at the thought of this strange, incredible letter which had taken away my wife's one defender, the only man in the house. My thoughts took so dark a turn that by the time I reached the hotel I could not swallow a mouthful. I left the table to return to the telephone office, but my agent found me and laid before me a lot of details which were essential to the success of my venture. I could not dismiss him immediately, and it was late when I re-entered the telephone office. My heart throbbed with impatience and my hand trembled so that I could scarcely hold the receiver to my ear. It was some seconds before I could hear anything.

"Hello, Louise, hello!" I cried. "Are you there? Answer me."

"At last I heard her voice, but it was low, oppressed, filled with terror.

"Oh, it's you at last! For the last hour I have been nearly crazed. I could not find the gun—that boy must have stolen it when he went away. Blaise has not come back. They must have got him out of the way on purpose. Oh, I am losing my head! I can scarcely breathe for terror—I think I hear—in the garden—far away— Wait while I listen."

"Clutching at the box for support, I could only cry, 'Louise, I beg of you, do not leave me in this silence—what do you hear?"

"The dogs are growling—now they are barking—barking furiously. They have run to the bottom of the garden—now, suddenly they are still. There is a deathly silence. But—yes, it sounds like muffled footsteps on the pebbled walk—as if some one were coming toward the house—"

"Go on, speak, Louise! I am strangled. I shall go mad. What do you hear—what do you hear now?"

"Nothing now—almost nothing—yes, there is a gentle, steady grating sound, as if a chisel were being slipped under a shutter to force it. The sash gives way—a window is broken. Oh, I am terrified!"

"I shook the telephone box in my agony. 'Telephone to Marseilles,' I cried, 'to warn the police!'

"How can I? The city is three leagues away. They would come too late—and I cannot—oh, I am going mad—"

"Call for help or hide yourself—yes, that's it. Take the little one and hide."

"I cannot. I have no strength left—they are coming, the stairs creak—they are in the hall—they are feeling along the wall—they try the door—Marcel! My God—help, help!"

"There were two muffled cries of terror, then a vague, confused noise, then a jumble of indefinite sounds, then silence. Something seemed to crack in my brain, and I fell unconscious."

Gasping as if he had lived through this terrible scene again, M. Maroux concluded: "From Le Gazette Judiciaire you can learn the details of the crime. It is known as 'the Morande atrocity.' By it I lost my wife, my child and my two servants. But no report can describe, no mere words can ever express, the hideous nightmare that modern science brought me, the frightful torture of a man who, at a distance of 100 leagues, hears the despairing cries of his wife and son, who are being strangled while he is powerless to do more than batter impotently on a wooden telephone box."—Translated For Argonaut From the French of Charles Foley.

A Marvelous Needle.
Among the many treasures owned by the queen is a wonderful needle made for her in Buckinghamshire. The needle is a miniature of the Roman column of Trajan, but instead of the exploits of Roman emperors, scenes in the life of Her Majesty are depicted. One shows the queen when a young girl at Tunbridge Wells, another scene is the coronation at Westminster, while a third shows the royal marriage with the prince consort. The figures in all these scenes can only be made out plainly by the aid of a magnifying glass. The needle can also be opened, and it contains several others, all of the same form, and all are adorned with miniature figures in relief.

COMTESSE DE CASTIGLIONE.

Once the Greatest Beauty in France, Now Old, Ugly and Deserted.

When the second empire was in the height of its glory, there were many marvelously beautiful women collected at the court of Napoleon and Eugénie, but the most beautiful of them all was that peerless creature the Comtesse de Castiglione, who played such havoc with men's hearts, and especially with the emperor's. All the glory and the glitter and the splendor of those days have fled. Only the stark memory of it is left, and the once lovely comtesse is now old and ugly and disabled. She resides in a quiet street in Paris and is without friends or relatives and is poor and pitifully disabled. Her blinds are always drawn. If she ventures out, it is always in a closed cab, and she leads the life of a recluse, living on the memories of the past. She reigned a queen for years—a queen of beauty, with all men at her feet.—New York Journal.

The Winter's Vogue in Furs.

It is predicted that for the winter the fur most in vogue will be chinchilla, sable, marten sable in the dark shades, sealskin, astrakhan and that peculiar variety of astrakhan called breitschwanz (still born lamb), an exquisitely soft skin like moire velvet, which is specially adapted for the blouses and jackets, which will be really the novelties of the season. The long cloaks incline rather to the redingote shape, although they are straight in front.

In fur lined garments the upper part of the bodice alone is lined with fur. Again, the cloak is merely trimmed with fur, and again, the fur lines it entirely. Green, heliotrope or dark red cloth or velvet, developed in long cloaks and lined or trimmed with fur, specially obtain for women who are tall and slender. Beautiful collars, yokes and neck pieces of various shapes are developed in fur, to be worn over a cloth coat or dress and accompanied by a muff and a toque decorated with the same fur.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Blessing to the Babies of the Poor. An Enterprise That Should be Fostered.

The prospect is very encouraging that the distribution of pasteurized milk, devoid of all malarial germs, among the children of the poor at a nominal price, will become general in the large cities of the United States. While this benevolence will be a blessing to the babies, our adult population enjoy an equally great one in the benefit conferred by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters upon persons afflicted with kidney and bladder complaint. Danger from Bright's disease and diabetes is surely averted by this admirable preventive, which is also a safeguard against malaria, fever and rheumatism, and a thorough remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint and nervousness. Diseases, insignificant at the outset, enlarge their proportions and capacity for destruction through neglect. Another point of importance in using this sterling remedy is, that it should be taken with regularity and persistence.

Bicycle Inventions.

Nearly one-fourth of the patents granted at this time relate to the bicycle. There are all kinds of devices from small tools to the whole wheel. So many kinds of wheels are made and the wheels are used for so many purposes that patents concerning the various parts are very numerous. Almost every use to which a wheel is put will point the way to a patent to improve the service. Then there are constant experiments in chains, handle-bars, spokes, tires, frames, pedals, and in fact, every part of the machine. It would seem that with so many patents issued every week the bicycle would soon become perfect.—Washington Post.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c.

J. M. Thirwind, of Groesbeck, Tex., says that when he has a spell of indigestion, and feels bad and sluggish, he takes two of DeWitt's Little Early Risers at night, and he is all right the next morning. Many thousands of others do the same thing. Do you? C. D. Stevens.

Words in the English Language.

It is quite unnecessary for any writer to interlard his work with foreign words or phrases. There are now over 250,000 words in the English language acknowledged by the best authorities, or about 70,000 more than in the German, French, Spanish and Italian languages combined. One can easily understand foreigners borrowing from English, but it seems inexcusable for English writers to burden their works with words taken from languages with a much smaller number of words than are to be found in our dictionaries.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth

Be sure and use that old and well tried remedy Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children's teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

There is no need of little children being tortured by scald head, eczema and skin eruptions. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve gives instant relief and cures permanently. C. D. Stevens.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets. Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c. If C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

AN EASY MARK.

The Gentleman from the Country Was Systematically Visited by Collectors.

"I weigh 200 pounds," said the man who had lived in the city a year, declares the Detroit Free Press. "My mustache grows long and strong. I'm active, know how to make a living and have always had an idea that I knew how to take care of myself, but I guess I must have borne a striking resemblance to an easy mark when I came here.

"Of course some allowance must be made for the fact that I was very busy in getting my family settled. There were trunks, carpet layers and scrub women to look after, and I was the general supervisor of the whole business. While I was straining every nerve and sweating at every pore to make a 12x14 carpet cover a 12x16 room, a big man with a tin badge on his chest walked in as one of authority and politely said: 'I see that you have three bicycles. Being a stranger in town you are probably unaware that you must pay an additional license of $5 on each wheel. It is my duty to collect. I was just mad enough to welcome anything that appeared like an additional hardship, for I was bestowing a good deal of pity on myself at the time, and promptly settled.

"While I was holding up one end of a refrigerator that is warranted to weigh 800 pounds, along came another man with a badge who asked how many cows I kept. I told him one, and he said I must pay the city $2 for the privilege. That made me feel all the more like a martyr, and I reached for the money so willingly that he interrupted to ask what kind of a cow she was. When I said with some pride that she was a Jersey, he taxed me $3. Then followed a man who tied a brass check to my lawn mower, and charged me $1, and another that wanted $10 because I had both electric light and gas. By that time my mind was working again, and so was my boot toe, but I was out $19 and felt like a cross-road 'Rube.'"

To Cure Constipation, Forever. Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. 21 fail to cure, druggists refund money.

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for over thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write him. C. D. Stevens.

Spencer and the Rooster.

Herbert Spencer is peculiarly sensitive to discordant noises, or those which he regards as such. A sound which is said to make Mr. Spencer forget that he is a philosopher is the chattering of a rooster to the dawn. When the roosters begin to crow, Mr. Spencer ceases to sleep, and there are whispers that the remarks he makes on such occasions thoroughly disprove his affiliation with the stoics. Some years ago, during a stay in Scotland, he was fairly maddened by the performance of a cock that crowed inconceivably early. After a period of prolonged suffering it occurred to him that if the bird were tied to its perch it would be unable to rise for the act of crowing. So, by a fine effort of induction, Mr. Spencer went to the hen-house soon after midnight and with his pocket handkerchief tied his enemy firmly to its perch. Then he went back to bed, and, though history does not record whether the expedient silenced the rooster or not, Mr. Spencer was so confident that it would that he slept calmly until long after the dreaded hour of his usual awakening.—New York Times.
